„A War game that combines the challenge of a RTS strategy with the thrill of direct confrontation through the battle of the AIs of different warring factions. The player takes the role of the commander of an alliance formed of five AI factions: the Alliance, the Earth Alliance, The Blackwings, the Planetary Union and the Earthgangers. The player's goal: to defeat the human defenders and capture the powerful CAI-units before the CAI-Universes become self-aware.“ Campaign mode Vol'Talkes: The AI War features a single-player campaign that takes place in

Animals were dying in the streets
At first, Guo was scared to complain to the police, believing the abuse would continue. "I had the children because of my parents' illness, and the lack of employment in my area. But no one helped me. I cried and begged and argued with my in-laws," she says. "Finally, I got a job at a restaurant in the suburbs, and in three months I had children from two marriages, but my parents' illness was still not taken care of." Guo says she became worried that she would not receive any sympathy from the authorities. "After I turned 18 I was taken out of the village by the police," she says. "It was a short ride, they were very nice to me. We were in the truck about an hour. "The village chief said that it was his new year's greetings, he was going to send me gifts, and that he would speak to people on my behalf, but I was really worried

This is a complete overhaul of the classic shoot 'em up to bring a brand new experience: using the latest technology and 3D graphics. DOGOS has a very open game design: The player takes control of several ships at the same time and can navigate, shoot and command them all from wherever they are. DOGOS uses 3D graphics that really comes to life: Whether it's the alien spacecrafts or the planet's landscape, everything is in 3D. The player can be fast and precise, or slow and steady to take down enemy ships using the many types of weapons available.

DESIGNER OF DOGOS AND INTEGRATED PRODUCTION TEAM The game was designed by Mariano Pulido Morales, a young Spanish game developer, with his very own studio Torba Games. Before launching DOGOS Mariano was a game designer at his young age, and has already made games such as Mario Graveyard and Tiny Agony. DOGOS features a large number of very dynamic and fast paced levels with tons of enemies and powerups to be collected. CREATE A STUNNING GAME WITH NEW AND COLORFUL VISUAL EFFECTS The use of 3D graphics allows the designers to create very dynamic, rich and colorful worlds. Different from the previous classic shmups, DOGOS offers a completely different gameplay experience. It brings more action, excitement and visual and sounds effects to this classic genre. Its developers have also thought about the most recent technologies, like eye tracking, and have included advanced features such as the 3D graphics engine and dynamic camera. DOGOS is an action-packed adventure, with an intense and addictive gameplay, realistic visuals, and a unique soundtrack. Buy It Now
