Exporting images Photoshop allows you to export images and video clips from the application in a wide variety of file formats. In fact, it has its own file format. The following file formats are available from Photoshop for macOS (note that these are the older file formats, and the newer file formats are sometimes not backward compatible; however, they still work, although you may have to do some tweaking.): * PSD: Photoshop file format that stores everything as layers, and uses raster graphics. Layers contain both pixel and bitmap data, and can be stacked and changed at will. * TIFF: Tagged image format for storing a single image, with and without compression, and supports transparency, making it the preferred format for high-quality print reproduction. * JPG: Single-image JPEG format. * PNG: Single-image PNG format for storing an image with transparency. * PDF: Digital PDF format that can contain multiple pages and images.

's position would allow the state to prosecute vehicle owners for a substance whether or not they were aware of it or took active steps to conceal it. As a *382 matter of law, no rational trier of fact could find that the defendant was "reckless." Id. at 709. The petitioner's claim is therefore barred by the prosecution immunity doctrine. In sum, petitioner's complaint that he has no remedy for his injury is not a bar to this Court's jurisdiction. In ruling on a petition for writ of certiorari, however, this Court's consideration is confined to the questions set forth in the petition. Petitioner has failed to raise those issues. PETITION DENIED. NOTES [1] See State v. Coles, 711 S.W.2d at 705. 1. Field of the Invention This invention relates to a surface-receiving and improved interlayer film. More particularly, this invention relates to a composition for forming an interlayer film wherein an interlayer film is disposed between two rigid polyurethane film sheets and is interposed between the rigid polyurethane film sheets, and the rigid polyurethane film sheets are bonded together by means of the interlayer film. 2. Description of the Prior Art Interlayer films have heretofore been used for protecting a surface of a substrate, in particular a photographic film, from scratching. For example, a layer of gelatin or polyvinyl alcohol is laid between a silver halide film and a superposed polyester film and is maintained between the two layers to protect the silver halide film from scratches. In addition, a laminate of biaxially stretched polyvinyl chloride films has been used as a support for a photographic film. Recently, it is often desired that a polyurethane resin is used as an interlayer film and is laid between two rigid polyurethane films. For instance, there is disclosed in U.S. Pat. No. 4,524,165 a laminate of four-layer structure wherein a polyurethane resin is used as the interlayer. The laminate of four-layer structure, however, has some drawbacks. It is necessary to incorporate an adhesive in the four-layer laminate in order to ensure good bonding of the respective layers. On the contrary, the incorporation of an adhesive increases the thickness of the laminate and a large amount of the adhesive is present in the laminate.

against the charges, and the surviving spouse had the right to testify, along with others. (Id. at p. 94.) Appellant was charged with the murder of the husband and wife, but the jury also convicted him of the attempted murder of the wife. (Ibid.) Appellant moved to set aside the conviction of attempted murder, claiming that the husband's testimony could not be used to show the elements of that crime. (Ibid.) The court determined that appellant's reliance on People v. Miller (1891) 91 Cal. 293 was misplaced. It held that the testimony of a surviving spouse was admissible on the issue of malice and explained: "It does not follow from what has been said that a surviving spouse cannot be a witness to the facts of the homicide. There can be no doubt that a surviving spouse is competent to testify to the killing of his or her deceased spouse." (Minjarez, supra, 24 Cal.App.4th at p. 94.) It further held: "The rule of Miller v. People is inapplicable, as the defendant has not been charged with the murder of the decedent." (Ibid.) Here, the People did not charge appellant with the murders of the three homeschooling mothers. They charged him only with causing the death of their children. Their deaths, therefore, are not relevant to establishing malice, which appellant concedes is the only element of attempted murder that was at issue in the penalty phase. 12 Appellant's reliance on Minjarez also is misplaced, as he contends, because unlike the situation in Minjarez, where the deceased husband could testify to the killing, the surviving children here had no way to establish that he caused their deaths because he was charged only with causing the death of their mothers. The People have proffered no evidence that he did anything more than cause their
