Mother jailed after stabbing son over wage dispute Mother jailed after stabbing son over wage dispute A MOTHER who allegedly stabbed her son in the chest after a wage dispute has been jailed for 15 months. At Bristol Crown Court, Sarah Lynn Walker, 39, sobbed in the dock as she was sentenced. Judge Catherine Bennett told the mother that the attack had been "deliberate, cruel and inflicted in an escalating dispute". She said: "You could have taken any alternative course. "You had the option of just talking about the matter as it was. "You chose to escalate the dispute by carrying out this attack. "You could have confined your demands to private correspondence and made clear your demands." Ms Walker pleaded guilty to inflicting grievous bodily harm with intent. Speaking after sentencing, Miss Walker sobbed as she was led away to begin her jail term. She was led away wearing a green padded jacket and three-quarter length top and trousers. The court heard that Ms Walker was unemployed and living with her 13-year-old son in Redland, Bristol. She had agreed to work for the contractor, which failed to pay her for several weeks. When she went to collect her wages, she was confronted by the boss and a row ensued. The court heard that the argument turned physical and that the defendant went to the kitchen to get a knife, where she was confronted by her son and punched twice in the head. She then stabbed her son on the chest and the wound became infected. The defendant was later arrested at the home of a former girlfriend in Redland, Bristol. In a victim impact statement read to the court, the victim's father said: "Since the attack the father and I no longer speak. "As a
