In the second round of questioning, Brown said that if he must choose between the Warren and Obama plans, he would have his choice be the more liberal plan. He mentioned that he voted for Obama in 2008, but didn't think that he did enough to support him in 2012. "I knew I was not going to vote for Romney at the time. And I did what I thought was best for Illinois. Unfortunately, it's not working," Brown said. "I don't know what any of us can do on the federal level." Rep. James Balcer, D-8th, questioned why Brown didn't go to a Democratic Congress-run health care exchange. Brown said that he didn't get to a health care exchange, despite working with the Obama administration for eight years. "They have turned it on me," Brown said of the Democrats. Obama's plan has 19 supporters in the House and 14 in the Senate, with a few undecided. The Senate bill is being considered by a 60-vote threshold. The Democratic efforts to pass a bill come after three attempts were unsuccessful. The final vote is expected on March 25. The Illinois plan can be found here. The Fair Tax, a national $16,000 flat tax, could be coming if the measure is passed in the Senate. If the bill passes, the government would cut its 12 percent sales tax and replace it with a federal income tax, bringing the rate to 7 percent. Brown said he hopes people are not taken advantage of by the federal plan, but believes that the individual states have a better chance of success. "I don't want to trade away the most important thing we have," he said. A new poll shows Scott Walker is leading in Wisconsin ahead of the recall election. The Fox poll shows 50 percent of likely voters approve of Walker's job performance, with 35 percent approving of Barrett. The poll has a margin of error of
