The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde is a Gothic novel by Scottish writer Robert Louis Stevenson, first published in 1886 . . The plot of this work was suggested to Stevenson by his friend, doctor and writer John Howman, who in his youth experienced a psychological crisis that caused a split personality. In the short story, Robert Louis describes the psychological state of a person, his ability to change his personality, creating his double. Unlike the usual split personality, a person has a second, dark side that controls the first. . Since I wrote this... I haven't written anything else...
