

pakistanis, particularly in east pakistan, have expressed support for the taliban and their leadership. while the pakistani military has sent military advisors to the afghan taliban, the pakistani intelligence and security apparatus has taken over the leaderships destiny in exchange for material and political concessions for pakistan. an example of how the pakistani military and intelligence use the taliban to eliminate the pakistanis opposition is the tehrik-i-todah deafening the pakistani army with the tehrik-i-taliban pakistan, or movement of the taliban in pakistan, which is now that will be used to commit atrocities against pakistanis. the ttp and its leader, maulana israrul-hada, are supported by the pakistani military and intelligence agencies. in fact, members of the taliban leadership council (shura) safely reside in pakistan (including in quetta in balochistan province). the taliban, including the leadership council, are also able to communicate with operational commanders in afghanistan via pakistani satellite phones. they also retain the right to use pakistanis hospitals to treat their wounded fighters and are free to travel to and from afghanistan with relative ease. the majority of the taliban use pakistani passports to travel abroad. they also retain considerable leverage over the taliban. for example, they can easily be tracked down and arrested due to the robustness of the taliban. moreover, the isi and pakistanis military controls pakistans civil and political sphere including the taliban and its leaders. as a result, taliban leaders can use pakistanis passports to travel overseas.
